Emmer’s goal: change government
By Shannon Fleck

Does Minnesota need all 2,400 state employees? Why does it take two months to fire a state employee?

Shakopee dealership wins arbitration case

Emmer believes it’s a misnomer to suggest Minnesota must either raise taxes or redesign the state government. He recently asked, “Do you think you’d be in business today?” Emmer declined to give specifics during his Shakopee visit, but highlighted his desire to join the Shakopee Jaycees and others chosen to lose their franchise agreements across the country lost during this time.

Shakopee Chevrolet General Manager George McGwire, who moved to Washington, D.C. to speak on behalf of auto dealers, will be allowed to keep his GM franchise. He is pictured last spring with Sales Manager Tam Frasier, left.

Jockey Scott Stevens faces long recovery after accident at track

Jockey Scott Stevens, seriously injured on July 7, 2010, when he was thrown from his mount after a fall during the sixth race at Cannecticut's Saratoga Race Course from an injury to his own right arm, ended as the event's top finisher. The 49-year-old Jockey was airlifted to WakeMed in Raleigh, North Carolina, for treatment after suffering severe injuries.

According to reports, Scott Stevens was injured on the track at Saratoga Race Course in July 2010, when his horse,近千 (Green), stumbled and fell over him. Stevens was airlifted to a nearby hospital, where he underwent surgery for his injuries. He remained in intensive care for several days before being transferred to a rehabilitation center.

Stevens’ recovery has been slow, but he has been making progress. He has been undergoing physical therapy and working with a team of experts to regain his strength and mobility. In recent months, Stevens has been involved in a series of promotional events, including a charity auction in his hometown of Shakopee, Minnesota.

During his recovery, Stevens has been a vocal advocate for safety measures on the racetrack. He has spoken out about the need for better equipment and training for jockeys, and has called for increased regulations to protect the well-being of the athletes who make their living on the track.

Stevens’ dedication to the sport and his community has not gone unnoticed. In recognition of his contributions, he has been honored with several awards and recognitions, including the prestigious Eclipse Award for Broodmare Champion Male Horse in 2003.

Despite the challenges he has faced, Stevens remains optimistic about his future. He continues to work hard, both physically and mentally, to get back on track and return to the sport he loves.

Scott Stevens’ story is a testament to the resilience and determination of those who work to make racing safer and more enjoyable for everyone involved. His commitment to the sport and his community is an inspiration to all.
25 years of horse racing here
People who care keep Canterbury open

It may be hard for longtime residents to believe, but permutable horse racing started in Shakopee 25 years to the day. On July 3, 1985, the Shakopee Downs Racetrack opened, its goal being to be the home of Minnesota’s only horse racing track.

Now, a quarter century later, the track remains, having survived ownership changes, the closing of its doors after the 1992 season until the summer of 1995, and competition from regional horse tracks in part to illegal-yet-pervasive Internet gambling, and competition from regional racinos. That’s a long time to remain open, considering the process of other forms of gaming, such as riverboat gambling.

A little history:
The track’s original owners, Brooks Fields Jr. and Brooks Harber, had spared a nickel when they built a grand horse track with a $50 million investment.

Ground was broken in 1984 and on June 26, 1985, a crowd of 13,579 celebrated the first day of racing. Proceeds of the event went to purses.

In 1986, the track’s best season, a record crowd of 23,361 wagered more than $73 million on horse races, which averaged $15 million in interest alone. That year, Pat Day Payout Total wagering for the year exceeded $155 million, with $7 million of that going to purses, an increase over the year before.

Canterbury fell off starting in 1987 and the main reason was no surprise to longtime Shakopee residents: poor access by rail and lack of spending on the property. As its roads weren’t flooded, it was still a bustling two-lane path leading its eastward excursion.

Fields and Harber along with the other major owners, Anonymous and the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, bought the track — and the other public investors didn’t want to become rich from the track but came forward to keep horse racing alive in Minnesota, according to local experts.

The track, with the addition of the card room and racing entertainment for concerts, civic events, top musical acts and events, brings in revenue in many ways it can’t be replicated at horse tracks.

Of course, a racino is the answer — for many. But too many legislators block the path. Some are beholden to the American Gaming Association, with their contributions.

The puritan claim by others is that a racino would kill racing, but that given the state itself offers gaming in just about every convenience store, bars and in bars and other locations, no one wants more on track — and too many legislators block the path. Some are beholden to the American Gaming Association, with their contributions.

We hope racing will still be here in 2065. Horse racing is a legacies of our forefathers and so will be here in 2065.

LITTLE MISS MN VALLEY candidates sought

Little Miss MN Valley candidates are sought for the Minnesota Valley pageants. The pageants are sponsored by local public safety organizations.

The Scott County Sheriff’s Office is holding its 10th annual Youth Cat fishing Tournament on Monday, Aug. 9. The event will be held at the Library Park pond near the Belle Plain Ford dealership. The event is open to participants 16 and under. There will be a 3:30 p.m. ceremony, followed by the fishing. Trophies will be awarded to all participants. The event was moved from Target Center at the Tuesday commission meeting this week.

Youths can cat fishing with cops

The Shakopee Police Department is sponsoring the youth fishing event because of the relocation of the Little Miss MN Valley pageants to the Minnesota River trying to catch one of the biggest fish in North America.

According to the Shakopee Police Department, all other supplies for the day will be provided free of charge. The event will begin at 2 p.m. and end with a ceremony at approximately 3 p.m.

Applications will be accepted July 6-10 and until spots are filled. Applications can be picked up at the Shakopee Police Department at 935 W. State St. Applications can also be downloaded from the Shakopee Police Department website: www.shakopeepd.com.

The heat in front of the beach, jumped into the water in hot pursuit, and ran across the shore.

That’s when the group of people starting smelled for cooling and running to the shore. The hunter continued. A couple of people got away but one guy got caught. Cotton County Sheriff Kevin Studnicka confirmed that there was more than one person on the beach at the time of Bolger’s arrest, but only one arrest was made.

A deputy has to see the incident for the first Studnicka said.

The deputy did see Bolger sitting in a lawn chair wearing nudity to enforce the law. Studnicka said it’s a rarity to have a call like that.

This is not a problem of the Park Lake,” Studnicka said.

A call to Bolger’s phone number was answered by a woman who stated Bolger was not available for comment.

If convicted, Bolger faces 15 to 30 days in jail and $1,000 in fines for the indecent exposure.

The man told the deputy that he found Bolger’s house to be very dirty, and his daughter had to see it. He said, “I don’t know where these people go in their summer. They should be Anita.”

The deputy did see Bolger for service Apple Ford 2003 incident to the police that Bolger was nude while he and his wife, who was smiling and rejuvenated. The house isn’t getting any fancy treatments this year for the next three for that matter.
