UPDATE

Suspects in burglary, theft cases arrested, jailed, charged

By Forrest Adams

Two volunteers were halted from being involved in the recent spate of burglaries and thefts in Tonka Bay, Mound and Chanhassen when taken into custody last Thursday. Two in all are now in Hennepin County Jail, and two others are in another county.

One of them is a 20-year-old male named Fess, of Cross Lake, and the other is a 32-year-old female named Weinandt, who lives in his car. Her name is Maria Weinandt.

Although this remains an active investigation, Weinandt and Fess were initially charged Monday, Sept. 13, with first degree burglary in an information in the Hennepin County District Court with the felony level of third degree burglary. The maximum penalty for this offense is a $35,000 fine and up to 20 years in prison.

Both defendants remained in custody Monday, and the bonding was set at $10,000.

The arrests

South Lake Minnetonka Police Chief Bryan Litsey called the burglary and thefts “heads-up” police work led to the apprehension of Weinandt and Braun at approximately 3:15 a.m. on Sept. 7. Weinandt and Fess were arrested after a car chase extending from Chanhassen through Brooklyn Center.

According to the official police report, SLMPD officers were responding to a burglary in progress at a residence located on a property in Tonka Bay Town, they tried to patrol for several hours, said Boote. The volunteer group also provides services to a Carver County Fair, Minnewashta and Baylor regional parks and patrolled public events and concerts. The Carver County Sheriff’s Office believes volunteers provide “unique combinations of skills and accessibility.”

The investigation

Detective Scott Grimm, a fellow Carver Lions club member of Greg Osterdyk, president of the Carver County Sheriffs Office Commander, was patrol- ing an area in Tonka Bay last Thursday afternoon. He was due to be relieved of duty about 4:30 p.m. to cover a shift, and he was off duty by 3:30 p.m. to cover a shift, and he was off duty about 4:30 p.m.

As 4:39 p.m., Osterdyk, 39, was driving a 2007 Pontiac Grand Am. The vehicle was similar to one mentioned in a crime report sent out by the Mound Police Department regarding a series of burglaries in the area.

By running a license plate check, Baller learned that the registered owner and driver of the car, Weinandt, had a warrant out of Brooklyn Center for failure to appear in court at the time and often other criminal warrants for the passengers, who had an active warrant for his service.

The report police states that on the night of the stop, a female, whom Grimm named, was on her cell phone in the car. The female driver asked the officer if he was going to search her vehicle, to which he replied “no.”

At 4:54 p.m., Osterdyk pulled over to the side of the road and asked the driver to exit the vehicle and to have her hands behind her back. At 4:59 p.m., Osterdyk conducted a search of the vehicle.

During the search, officers report they located several credit cards, business cards and a Minnesota drivers licence in Weinandt’s possession, which matched the information on her license.

The SLMPD further report that they found some of the works of art and clothing in Weinandt’s possession belonging, including one in Tonka Bay from Sept. 7. In the 3rd burglary, the victim of a Tonka Bay home was burglarized on the night of the 7th, as well as property found in her vehicle.

In Weinandt’s possession were also “a number of personal items were stolen, including the DNA evidence found at the scene.”

Detective Scott Grimm, a fellow Carver Lions club member of Greg Osterdyk, president of the Carver County Sheriffs Office later joined in on the investigation. Weinandt and Braun were eventually transported to the Chanhassen Police Station, where they were released on bond on the charges.

The two suspects are believed to be part of a larger group, which may lead to the scope of the investigation widening and additional suspects being charged.

Move over, thumbweed — make room for "Egyptian Mistletoe". There’s a new weed in town.

This "Egyptian Mistletoe" is perfectly harmless, but it can create problems. Theodore Duff, a home inspector, found a whole nest of it in a house he was inspecting.

"It was a bit of a surprise," Duff said. "I’ve seen it before, but not in a house. It was in the attic." He noted that the house was in good condition, except for the presence of the mistletoe.

The mistletoe is actually a type of fungus that grows on dead trees. It can attack living trees, causing them to weaken and eventually die. Duff recommends that homeowners check for mistletoe and take steps to prevent it from spreading.

Volunteers help to help

TreeHouse Chaska, an organization working with at-risk youth, is in need of volunteers to help them distribute coats to Afghanis.

"We have a limited number of coats that will be sent to the front lines in Afghanistan," TreeHouse Chaska volunteer, Bud Grow, said. "We need help to distribute them to Afghanis living in the cold, mountainous terrain near Pakistan. In addition, the gift shop of the Arboretum began its fundraising campaign aimed at a goal of $5,000. The money will pay for shipping up to 50 direct mailings to military units in Afghanistan using 40-foot shipping containers. More about Rep. "Sharks" summary:

The challenge for Kandiko was to find a way to walk into this culture, Kandiko said, and to provide them with someone, a face to face to talk.

"I wanted to make sure that everyone knew about the book," Kandiko said. "But the project gained traction after Kandiko explained her concept to me. "You should do this," Kandiko told Kandiko. "People are going to love it.""

The Victoria City Council approved the preliminary levy and budget at Monday’s meeting for Victoria.

For Victoria residents, it means they will pay a property tax on their homes this year at a rate of 37.4 percent tax rate and with a commitment to maintain the property tax levy and budget at Monday’s meeting.

The preliminary levy tax is $3,640,502, a decrease of 8.7 percent from 2010. The decreased levy is due to an increase in the city’s property's taxable value of 4 percent ($175,955) and has decided to forgo the joint powers agreement with KleinBank since 2003, the city has banked with KleinBank since time being.

The city owns several buildings with HVAC units that are 18 years old and is familiar with District 112 and cost sharing to the joint powers agreement and the Victoria Recreation Board.

Sheriff candidates square off at LWV forum

By Richard Crawford

There will be a new sheriff in Carver County in 2011. That much is certain as current Sheriff Bud Olson is not seeking re-election in November at the holding the post since 1998. The sheriff who will be on the ballot – Derek Lee and Jim Olson – are both candidates for the post of Carver County's sheriff.

Both men touted their experience and leadership abilities, as well as living for the position, the forum, which tabulated votes.

Derek Lee

Lee, who previously owned an insurance broker for sheriff in 2001 against Bud Olson, was raised in Carver County. Lee said he left the sheriff’s office in 2002, and then was named an assistant prosecuting attorney. He is now the owner of Derek Lee, a real estate business in Chanhassen.

Lee said he will bring “as much stability as possible” to the office. He had several ideas for improvements at the office, including a new budget and hiring more staff.

Jim Olson

Jim Olson, who recently served as the former sheriff of Carver County, has spent the last 11 years working in law enforcement. He has served in a variety of capacities, including as a patrol officer, detective, and sergeant.

Olson said he wants to continue the Legacy of Service that he has demonstrated in his career as sheriff. He wants to be known for his commitment to community service and his ability to work well with others.

Financial assistance position added

The district attorney’s office in Carver County has created a new position for financial assistance. Carver County has created an additional position to help with a surge in demand.

The district attorney’s office is seeking a new financial assistance coordinator to help with the increase in demand for financial assistance. The coordinator will be responsible for managing the office’s financial assistance program, which provides assistance to individuals and families who are unable to pay for legal services.

Migration mysteries

After a blazing summer, the weather has finally turned cool and there is a palpable crispness to the air. I am even noticing some of the major changes and comings in the woods turning walks. All of this better explains why I have all been glazed from the bushes and trees. Autumn migration is so well understood with many groups of birds, such as thrushes, finches and sparrows, coming to roost in the trees and fields.

Bird migration is a fascinating and wonderful natural phenomenon. I spend a lot of time studying and thinking about migration. After all, we don’t understand the basics of much about the birds. Not to mention that nature is so real that it is easy to believe that the birds have some sort of magic ability to navigate the world.

Migration is as common as most natural acts. How does that tiny little bird manage to make it through the winter? How does it get to the place where the weather is cooler and there is a palatable crispness to the air.

A lot has been learned about the process of migration in recent years. Formerly, some people thought that hummbugs migrated on the backs of geese. Now we know that this notion is not true. Geese really don’t migrate very far at all when compared to hummingbirds. Hummingbirds migrate far, far, far away from us.

Adult male hummingbirds are the first to leave on migration. They migrate individually — not in flocks — as do migrating birds. So that means you may have your male in the air while others may still be in your yard.

They wait for favorable wind conditions (usually winds out of the north or northeast) and use the sun sets as their guide. They fly at night. So that means you may see your males flying in the yard at night and must not have any lights on in your yard to allow them to guide their way.

When the sun comes up they land and put some rest and nutrients into their bodies. This is why it is important to leave your feeders up, even if your local hummingbirds are gone. The female hummingbirds will be returning soon. And the young hummbugs that were born this past spring, just go to eat the juvenile birds. How they know where to go is a complete mystery but obviously they do know where to go.

Every minute of the short nights are important if you want to replenish fat supplies that help them survive long winter nights. Each and every night is a struggle.

And you thought winter was depressing enough. Try being a bird that doesn’t migrate. At this time of year, I spend a lot of time thinking about and marveling at the birds. I hope you take the time out of your day to ponder the mysteries of migration.

For your 20 years Welcome Neighbor! has helped new residents learn about their new community.

New to the area?

City leaders are waiting to see what happens with a criminal trial against a Chanhassen man following a fight at a golf club. A preliminary hearing will be set next month.

The man, Louis Volkman of 38021 1st St. NE, was arrested in the afternoon of July 25 on charges of harassment and disorderly conduct. Volkman allegedly threatened great bodily harm and false imprisonment on an ex-girlfriend, loaded rounds, and domestic assault, a gross misdemeanor.

Volkman also received a citation in Carver County District Court, but did not file a defendant.

The trial has not been set.

Volkman is accused of domestic assault in a letter, dated July 8, that was read into the court record. The letter details the probable cause hearing along the right way, that "all items and structures must be permanently removed from the public right of way no later than Aug. 31. The so-called "right of way" argument is coming up prior to an order from the northern part of the Minnesota Department of Transportation to a public access on Lotus Lake.

Matters from Volkman’s court search returns into the right way as well as homes sitting north of Volkman’s which is not the same story. The letter also questions the jurisdiction of the court.

Volkman’s attorneys have brought an out-of-court hearing letter as well, believing that the letter may be expected to restrict the area.

Gambling is all about satisfying a craving or a thirst. Whether you’re in it to have fun or to bring home the bank, there’s definitely a pursuit of fulfillment involved. It should come as no surprise, then, that Mystic Lake Casino Hotel not only offers an array of games to keep even the pickiest gamblers happy, but also has restaurants galore to sate the appetites of its visitors.

While Mystic Lake’s famed buffet has garnered plenty of awards, ink and spotlight, the casino’s newest restaurant is set to give the buffet a run for the money. Il Premio, an Italian restaurant housed between the walls that once enveloped Ribbons Steakhouse, offers authentic tastes with local ingredients.

“I want it to be like it would be in Italy,” says Richard Fisher, executive chef for Il Premio and Mystic Lake’s 13 other food venues. “We have to be really conscious of who we’re catering to, but at the same time, hope to create some new clientele.”

Yet Fisher didn’t hesitate to boast about the regional gems fleshing out the menu’s offerings. These include tomatoes from Owatonna, bleu and Gorgonzola cheeses from Faribault and Wisconsin mozzarella. He says those items are parts of the comfort and familiarity so many associate with Italian food standards, such as pizza and spaghetti and meatballs.

“I think there’s something about Italian food that makes everyone remember being a kid…When you’re a kid, it’s spaghetti and meatballs or lasagna. Everybody, whether there was some Italian heritage or not, grew up with that.”

He had these feelings in mind when he came up with Il Premio’s menu, which features those dishes as well as Italian staples including calamari, chicken par-migiana and vial salmìnsconca.

“We really are trying to do traditional Northern Italian food,” Fisher says. “It’s accessible but creative, but it’s not pretentious. It’s still comfortable.”

Il Premio, which translates to “the prize” in English, is more than just a clever name for a casino café. It’s an apt title for a restaurant whose executive chef was named one of “Foodservice News’” top 25 executive chefs in Minnesota in 2008.

Indeed, sitting down at Il Premio, diners can find contemporary Italian fare alongside Minnesota’s unofficial favorite meal companion: chicken and wild rice soup. Many of the items on the Il Premio menu feature fresh flavors, including hints of lemon, basil and olive oil. The desserts range from Italian classics such as the cannoli to familiar favorites like a decadent almond cheesecake.

Fisher, who has been at Mystic Lake since 2001, said Il Premio’s menu is “a constantly evolving document,” and he already has future entrees in mind.

“I think one thing that we would do that we don’t have on the menu right now that would probably be the next entree that we would get into… would probably be osso bucco or something very traditional,” he says.

Il Premio is only open for dinner right now, and anyone who is still hesitant about the menu’s content might be swayed by the chef’s own testimonial, offered over caramelized Brussels sprouts, one of the restaurants’ smaller antipasti dishes.

“These are really awesome,” Fisher says. “They will take someone who doesn’t like Brussels sprouts, [and] I’ll turn them.”

Three Qs

By Mollie Francisco

Why would a spinal disc need treatment?

Diane also deteriorates as a spinal disc ages. They can also be injured when they’re compressed between two vertebrae or when a vertebra pinches them in any number of ways. Vitamin deficiencies, poor nutrition, and back surgery can affect a disc. When the nucleus is pushed out from the spinal disc, it’s like a jelly donut. It’s also made of a gel-like material that’s a little less dense and firm than another jelly doughnut.

Q: What are some symptoms of spinal disc disease?

Communication

Communication breakdown is one of the symptoms of the condition. When people do not communicate, they do not understand what each other is trying to say. It can make people feel frustrated and angry.

Q: Are there any people out there with disc problems, who does everybody get the same treatment, or are there any people out there who are getting treated for their disc problems? For example, there’s this one person who has a lot of back pain and no one seems to be able to help them.

Young Aubrey was paralyzed after a riding accident. She had no control over her abdominal muscles and could neither hold her breath nor exhale. Determined to find another way, Aubrey began receiving treatment at the Minnesota Disc Institute when Marinea found that the program had a private arrangement that was treating the care of Aubrey. Aubrey was pregnant at the time, and Marinea was pregnant as well. Aubrey had a choice: keep Aubrey in, or find a new treatment. Aubrey had no idea how to find another treatment.
