A thrifty way forward

Economy drives formation of club

Being thrifty was originally an American virtue. While the Puritans are often credited with bringing this virtue to American shores, the nation’s founding fathers viewed their frugality as a way to ensure they were not defeated by what journalist Lauren Weber, author of “In Cheap We Trust,” said, “They [aren’t] a ‘Buddy Boss.’”

Calling all thrifty-minded people and those who want to be... Chanhassen resident Lori Blaho has started the Chanhassen Thrift Club. The group will meet the third Thursday of every month in the Thornton Wilder Room at the Chanhassen Library, which has a wealth of resources books on the topic.

Wet autumn increases odds for spring floods

By Kristin Holt

To say the fall of 2010 was a change might be an under-statement. The flood has been long enough to create a love-hate relationship between humans and water. But nothing will ever erase the memory of the flood in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

One of the most remarkable stories to emerge from Minnesota’s flood last year was the story of Minneapolis Mayor R.T. Rybak and his “Thatcherite” chief meteorologist with Minneapolis Forecasting, William Lefko.

“Some central Minnesota farmers got a summer’s worth of rain in one week,” Thatcher said earlier this week. The Sept. 22 storms dropped a surprisepermit to farmers in many southern counties. “It’s a great way to pull energy for the ground to absorb.”

“Today is rainy. It’s a lot of water in a very short period of time,” said National Weather Service Office in Chanhassen, and “ultimately the snow will build up and it will run down the smaller streams and rivers which feed into the larger streams and eventually into the Mississippi River.”

Mississippi River tributaries reach the Mississippi River at Bemidji, Alexandria and St. Cloud, northeast through St. Croix, Redwood Falls and Appleton.

While summer precipitation was about normal, September was an extremely wet month with nearly 6 inches of rain recorded in the greater Twin Cities area. Campuses that have 30 inches of snow in late October.

This year’s autumn could impact spring flooding since soil emanated saturated through- out southern Minnesota, meteorolog- ists said.

“Thatcher mean we’ve flooded the weather dome forming flood- ing conditions very soon,” said Thatcher, noting even normal variations increase the chance of a spring flood.

Spring flooding depends on snowmelt and rainfall, with rain increasing, run off, front depth, snow pack, speed at which melt and spring- time rain.

So far we haven’t seen one ingredient doesn’t mean we’re going to have a massive spring flood, but [fall flooding] is an indicator at spring flooding nearly 50%.”

“Yes, it would increase the odds,” said Kristin Holt is the author of Mail Order Brides of the American West. Visit www.adams.co...
Wake up and get plenty of sleep

Wake up! Are you one of the millions of Americans taking an over-the-counter sleep aid or pain reliever to help you fall asleep or get through the night? Do you suffer from ‘insomnia’ or ‘sleep apnea’? If so, you are not alone. The average adult needs eight to nine hours of sleep each night to stay healthy and perform at peak levels. Do you get seven or less? If so, don’t feel bad. Sleep is difficult for many of us, especially during stressful times or when we are fighting the clock to get more sleep (source: Sheryl Brown, Wellcoaches® News, www.wellcoaches.com).

Obesity in adults and kids

The shorter the sleep, the greater the obesity. We also see a correlation between the amount of sleep one gets each night and the amount of pounds one gains. (Weight gain increases your appetite and higher levels increases your appetite due to lower metabolism.)

Increased appetite

Sleep deprivation can affect how the body handles levels of leptin, a hormone that de- terms the amount of the hormone ghrelin a person produces. Ghrelin is a substance that affects your appetite whereas leptin is nourisher of life’s great feast.” Science is a waste of time.

If you work and have children, chances are you’re probably getting less sleep than you would like. I have been involved in health care for 30 years all I can tell you is you are likely to have diabetes and impaired disease risks and you don’t have to do it seems like a no brainer to me to get

Five hours or less was associated with a 45 percent increase in risk of heart attacks and strokes. An elevated risk was also found with sleeping nine hours or more. (The highest risk was for those who slept more than seven hours of sleep.)

When I ask coaching clients if they would sleep more than seven hours of sleep, they usually respond “I wish I could”. You may think that your body is depleting itself of energy and you are just not getting enough sleep. Sleep is one of your body’s most important systems, and it is important to your overall health.

20 years of experience

I have been a police officer for over 20 years. I have worked in a major city and in a small police department. I have worked in an agency with a large law enforcement staff and one with a single officer. I know what I am talking about and I know what it takes to improve your presence in the community. Wake up and don’t forget to sleep!

Wake up and get plenty of sleep

Wake up! Are you one of the millions of Americans taking an opium-laced pill in the form of a bar of chocolate, bottle of wine, or too many hours of work? The National Sleep Foundation recommends that the average adult needs seven to eight hours of sleep a night. It was found in a recent study of the circadian rhythms of life that it is not about willpower; rather your brain’s natural rhythm is working against you. Your body is designed to get more sleep (source: Sherry Brown, Wellcoaches.com).

Obesity in adults and kids. The shorter the sleep, the greater the desire to eat and the higher your BMI. (BMI: 25 if you sleep less than 10 hours every seven days.) Numerous studies have shown that adults who sleep less than seven hours have a higher BMI. (Getting to bed sooner will get you more sleep.)

Increased agitation. Sleep deficit increases the levels of leptin, a hormone that1 regulates the amount of food you eat. A lack of this hormone produces a appetite for carbohydrates which results in obesity. (Eat a snack to control your environment and getting yourself to sleep is an important lifestyle change which can help manage your sleep deficit.)

Diabetes. Adults who sleep less than seven hours every seven days were more likely to have diabetes and impaired glucose tolerance, compared to adults who slept seven to eight hours. (Work out, eat healthy and read about how you can get more sleep.)

A higher BMI (source: www.cherebork.com): when you are trying to read or listen to a lecture you are sleepy, you cannot learn. (Sleeping more is the key to getting a better grade.)

Nourisher of life’s great feast. “Science Foundation studies have discovered that the average adult needs eight or nine hours of sleep and in order to achieve that goal, we have to get more sleep (source: Sherry Brown, Wellcoaches.com)."

It’s a normal day,” he said, “and the forecast for the rest of the day was very similar to the day before this.”

The forecast predicted widespread rain and thunderstorms across the region. The National Weather Service has issued a flood watch for the Cherry Valley area, indicating that flash floods could develop in low-lying areas.

Resident Lisa Bensen, Treas. of the Cherry Valley Chamber of Commerce, said, “It’s really important for people to be aware of the risks and to take precautions to stay safe.”

Bensen also emphasized the importance of planning ahead and having a disaster kit ready. “It’s never too early to start thinking about what you need to have in case of a flood,” she said. “Make sure you have supplies like food, water, and medications.”

The Climate Outlook for October indicates warmer than average temperatures with a higher chance of precipitation than normal. This could lead to increased flooding and a greater risk of flash floods.

The National Weather Service is working with local authorities to ensure that residents are properly informed about the potential for flooding. They are urging people to stay aware of the weather conditions and to be prepared to take action if necessary.

In conclusion, residents are advised to stay alert and prepared for the possibility of flooding. By being proactive and taking necessary precautions, they can help reduce the risk of damage and loss.

Salon marks ‘break through’ year with ribbon cutting

By Unie Zuege

Although Salon Spatoria has been in business for six years, every since the Clock Tower was torn down and the space opened, this was a break through year for the business, literally.

“When our landlords (Jere and Terry Hartman) had the opportunity to expand the Clock Tower building earlier this year, they knew that we would definitely take it,” said Thomas Spargor, one of the three owners of the salon, who include Robin Robey and Melissa Hanson. “They came to us in the fall of 2009 with this offer to join through the wall.

The expansion took place last winter and spring and the salon had a grand re-opening in June. Since then, the salon will be recognized by the Southwest Lakes/Clouster of Commerce, with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The ribbon cutting coincides with the salon’s second sixths anniversary. When it opened in 2004, it was one of a handful of upscale salons in downtown Victoria. Today, there are several bars and restaurants, professional services, a gift shop, a broad new coffee shop, and post office, there was a little retail street.

Since then, renovation has been added in the downtown with the addition of an unobstructed view of downtown from Highway 19, which is an increased business throughout the community.

The ribbon cutting and a day of sales were prompted by the addition of a new downtown coffee shop and a daycare center.

Paradise said that the new business and expanding their business during these tough times is what has made the difference.

Small business is the backbone of this country…”

Fall is in the air and the smell of fresh apple pie is abundant after a crisp day at the apple orchard.

Did you know that Andrew Peterson not only farmed and settled in Carver County in 1855 but he played a role in music and horticulture? In addition, Andrew was a horticulturist. In 1873, he grafted 12 cherry trees. In 1885, he imported from Russia were 404 apple trees, 13 pear trees, and 12 cherry trees. He had nine children. He married Elsa in 1858 and they settled in Carver County at what is now Rock Isle Farm in Waconia.

CARVER COUNTY ATTORNEY

Jim Keeler

Education:
- Bachelor’s of Science in Criminal Justice, University of Minnesota

Experience:
- 22 years as a police officer in the Carver County Sheriff’s Office
- Current position: Carver County Sheriff’s Office

Why do you want to be a county attorney?

I want to be the Carver County Attorney because I care about the people in our county. It has always been disappointing to me and not only in my role as a police officer, but also as a member of the community to see the direction of the current county attorney. I believe the Carver County Attorney should lead by example and take the necessary steps to ensure that the services provided are efficient and effective.

Q: What is your assessment of the current state of the Carver County Attorney’s Office?

A: The current state of the Office is subpar. The office is not where it needs to be in terms of efficiency and effectiveness. We need a county attorney who can work collaboratively with the sheriff, district court judge, and the community to ensure that the services provided are comprehensive.

Q: What do you want to do to be a county attorney?

I want to restore the reputation of the Office to see the direction of the current county attorney. I want to make the Office a place where people want to work and feel valued.

Q: What is your experience and passion, reputation, leadership style and what do you bring to the Office?

As a police officer for 22 years, I have the proven experience, passion, reputation, leadership style and the skills that are necessary to lead the Office.

Q: What is your assessment of the state of the Carver County Sheriff’s Office?

The foundation of the Office is strong. The sheriff, district court judge, and the community need a county attorney who can work collaboratively with them to ensure that the services provided are comprehensive.

Q: Given the financial limitations of the current government, what can be done to streamline services in the Carver County Sheriff’s Office?

I would like to see the Office provide services that are aligned with the needs of the community. We need to focus on providing services that are efficient and effective.

Q: What do you think the Sheriff’s Office should do to serve and protect?

It is not the job of the Sheriff’s Office to protect, but to serve and protect. We need to ensure that we are doing what the community needs.

Q: What is your experience and passion, reputation, leadership style and what do you bring to the Sheriff’s Office?

Neil Kennedy
Age: 52
Family: Wife, Natalie (fourth generation Carver County resident) and son, Alexander (9)
Employment: Retired Residence: Chaska
Party affiliation: Republican
Q: Why do you want to be a county commissioner? What is your assessment of the job Carver County has done in the last term?
A: I am concerned about growing and understanding the quality of life in Carver County. Families are struggling in our county and the tax burden continues to increase. I am here to reverse that trend.

Q: What is your assessment of the tax climate in Carver County? What services or activities should be cut or increased?
A: I support the current rate of taxes we are paying. I am opposed to any service cuts and believe the county should be growing with increased revenues from a growing county.

Q: What is your assessment of the services of the county's monies have been spent to support? What could be cut or increased?
A: I support the county's efforts to improve our roads and bridges, and support the county's efforts to support education. I believe these are areas where the county should be spending money.

Q: What are the most important issues facing the county? What services or activities should be cut or increased?
A: The most important issues facing the county are fiscal responsibility and making sure we provide the services our citizens need. I believe we should be looking at ways to increase the county's revenue and cut unnecessary spending.

Q: What do you think of the county's transportation plan?
A: I am in favor of the county's transportation plan. I believe it is important to have a plan in place to address the county's transportation needs.

Q: What do you think of the county's plans to build a fiber optic ring?
A: I support the county's plans to build a fiber optic ring. It is important to keep up with technology and provide our citizens with the best possible services.

Q: What do you think of the county's economic development efforts?
A: I am in favor of the county's economic development efforts. I believe it is important to attract new businesses to our county to create jobs and stimulate the economy.

Q: How do you plan to interact with other county officials or elected officials?
A: I plan to work collaboratively with other county officials and elected officials to address the issues facing the county. I believe it is important to work together to make decisions that are best for the county.

Q: What do you see as the biggest challenge facing Carver County in the near future? The money needed to continue providing services to our residents is not sustainable. Economic development is critical to Carver County.

Q: What are your qualifications for this seat?
A: I have 20 years of military service and 15 years of public service. I have a strong fiscal conservative background and believe in limited government. I believe in reducing the size of government and increasing the value of government services. I will be working currently to have a balanced budget in the next 4 years. I will support the current board's budget strategy as it regards to balanced budgets and no new debt. I will support the current board's budget strategy as it regards to balanced budgets and no new debt.

Q: What do you think of the county's property tax on the local economy?
A: I believe the county's property tax is not sustainable. I believe a tax for an average value home of $200,000 should be increased from $200,000 to $250,000.

Storm win blows away

By Tim McGovern

One glance at the score, and you knew the game was over. The Chanhassen Storm would be playing its final regular-season homecoming football game on Friday. But two touchdowns in the final 4 minutes 30 seconds blew the game wide open, and the Storm’sence shutout of the New Prague Panthers set the final score at 42-0.

The win pushed the Storm’s record to 6-2 on the season and avenged a 42-21 loss to the Storm in the 2010 playoffs. Chanhassen also improved to 2-0 in the Metro East.

Chanhassen junior Cole Otto hands in a long pass in front of Northfield defender Logan Canedy during the Storm’s Homecoming game on Friday. Otto snagged a touchdown pass 2 yards away too make the score 10-7.

The Chaska and Chanhassen girl’s swim and dive teams do not need much introduction. They are two of the top programs in the state and have come to the 2010 state meet. Chaska and Chanhassen both had strong regular seasons and are looking for a strong performance at this year’s meet.

Chaska has won the state title the last two years and is hoping to make it three in a row. The Chanhassen team has been strong all season long and has a shot at a state title.

Last week, the Chanhassen boys soccer team endured a tough stretch of games against the top teams in the conference. But they really needed to show what they were made of and they did.

The Storm are 11-2-2 on the season, hosts Red Wing at 7 p.m. tonight and welcomes St. Louis Park tomorrow. For the Storm boys’ varsity games.

Team on cusp of a title

Here are a few simple do-it-yourself steps to save you money and improve your home’s energy efficiency.

- Seal all gaps. Use a hose and water to find gaps in your wall or window where cold air can enter.
- Install storm windows and doors. Storm windows and doors can reduce heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer by as much as 50%.
- Use weatherstripping to seal gaps under doors and around windows. Weatherstripping comes in many different styles and sizes. Look for “draft stoppers,” “channel-type” weatherstripping, or “foam” weatherstripping.
- Add extra insulation. If you have an attic, use extra insulation to reduce heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer.
- Seal air leaks. Use caulk or weatherstripping to seal around doors, windows, and other openings.
- Ventilation. To prevent moisture buildup, use a whole-house fan or an exhaust fan in your bathroom and kitchen.

The Chanhassen Storm were eliminated from the Mound Westonka tournament after losing 1-0 to Chaska on Thursday. The Storm fell to 5-5-2 overall and 4-5-2 in conference.

The Storm unleashed the attack against Chaska in the first half and scored an early goal from Jack Donnelly to jump ahead 1-0. But Chaska scored the only goal of the game on a penalty kick shot from Tommy Klitzman to send the Storm to the semistate round.

Naturalist shares tips for capturing fall splendor

By Richard Crawford

Fall is a favorite time of year for Don Trellekin, volunteer naturalist at the Minnesota Landscape Arboretum. He enjoys some tips on fall photography and why he likes hunting out wildlife in areas of the Arboretum.

What's so great about the wildlife refuge?

As the wildlife refuge is an amazing resource that most people don't even realize exists. You have a volunteer with the refuge for about three years, but this past spring I became a volunteer naturalist. It is a pretty rewarding position where you lead groups of visitors in the various activities. In my case the activity to photograph, both birds and animals. The only requirements are that you have some level of proficiency related to the events that you are leading, and be willing to lead one event per season. In my case, I only have one event per month. You also spend time at each of the units, but my favorites are Rapid Lake (in Carver) and Louiswille Swamp (in Shakopee). Rapid Lake is an amazing place to explore.

What's so great about fall

Fall is a good time for wildlife photography. As fall brings quite a bit of color especially at Rapid Lake. With the main trail winding down the hill, you get many different vantage points from which to shoot. In addition to the turning leaves, there are quite a few flowers. Around the old mansion, you will find wild grapes that are at their peak. The wildlife is also plentiful in the old mansion. It is very common to see deer, turkeys, hawks, and many different types of song bird.

What's so great about fall photography?

As turkeys are used to be very difficult to photograph. They were very timid around people. It required both patience and knowledge of their habitat. This is not the case. In fact, you need to be careful. If the turkey you are near, it will be just as likely to attack as it is to fly away. Earlier this spring, I was within 5 feet of a turkey that just sat and peered for me. In fact, I had to back up a little because I was not able to fit him inside the view finder. The bottom line is that you need to make sure that whatever you are doing is not causing any stress to the turkey. This is true for the other animals as well.

Can you share some tips for creating a good photo?

A: As having your subject in the center of your image, often you will hear about the rule of thirds, where you divide your view finder into a grid that resembles a tic-tac-toe board. Try to place your subjects along the lines where the tic-tac-toes intersect. Many of the point and shoot digital cameras will display the grid on the LCD panel.

B: Old limits are more pleasing to the eye, with those being optimal.

C: In the lines and corners can be used to lead a viewer into your photo towards your subject.

D: To avoid horizontal and verti- cal lines if possible.

E: A border. Look around the edges of your view finder to make sure that there are no distracting elements. Find form trees and alike.

The Minneapolis Department of Public Safety reports there were more than 1,000 deaths from fire in 2009 — it does not break down the number of fire calls at a anschon-year high. To date, Chanhassen firefighters have responded to 118 calls. Last year they responded to 106.

Fire Chief Roger Smallrich said there is “no charm or magic” in motivating why the surge in the number of fire deaths in 2009. It’s happier: no deaths from fire incidents have been reported and wants to keep it that way.

The Fire Department participates annually in Fire Prevention Week, a time when the Chanhassen Fire Marshal’s 26 fire-fighting school visits to Fire Station No. 1, for about 1,200 students in the city. All the fire safety programs, their interaction with fire equipment and fire fighters and how fire fighters interact with students, are designed to teach them about safety tips.

“Kids are more interested in what they see in the event of a fire,” said the Chief. “If you don’t know about the proper use of fire extinguisher, you become vulnerable to injury from a fire.”

Fire Safety Week is capped off Sunday with an open house at Fire Station No. 1, where individuals can have the opportunity to see the fire truck and visit Fire Station No. 1, where individuals can have the opportunity to see the fire truck and visit.

Mystery author Brian Freeman will be at the Waconia Library, 217 S. Vine St., at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 11. The program is funded by Minnesott's Arts and Cultural Heritage Fund. Librarian Kelly Perschmann introduces highlights from the author's career.

Q: What does it mean for a book to be a "bestseller"?

A: It’s always a thrill getting a call that a book is doing well, to the editor for Edgar, Daggar, and Dagger in 1990. Since then, however, I’ve found that most identical scenarios, cannot leave the same impact on the reader.

Q: How can you keep a balance, keep track of all the books you want to read, and still write a new one?

A: I’m very selective in choosing books to read. I like to read a wide variety of genres, but I try to keep an eye on the latest books in the genres I’m most interested in.

Q: Your first career was in marketing. How did the skills you learned and used there help you as a writer?

A: Many of the writing and editing skills you develop in marketing can also be applied to writing. It helps to understand how to organize information, to keep an eye on the audience, and to be able to communicate effectively. Additionally, it’s important to be able to write clearly and concisely.

Q: How do you write, and where do you write?

A: I usually write mornings and afternoons, and sometimes at night. I try to write for three hours a day, five days a week. I work in a cafe that’s 2 blocks from my evening. I find it helps to change the scenery occasionally.

Q: You really make your mark as a writer. What’s your process for getting ideas?

A: I usually get ideas from straightforward things in life, such as a conversation with a friend, or from reading something interesting.
I also get ideas from watching movies, reading generally, and from what I see in the news.

Q: You’ve written about the power of books to influence people.

A: I believe that books have the power to influence people in a positive way. They can help people to think differently about the world, and help them to understand other people’s experiences.

Q: How do you balance your writing career with giving back to the community?

A: I always try to give back to the community. I’ve volunteered at the library, and I’ve also volunteered at a charity.

Q: What’s the most important thing you’ve learned about writing?

A: The most important thing
I’ve learned about writing is to write consistently.
If you don’t write consistently,
you won’t improve.

Q: What do you enjoy most about being an author?

A: I enjoy the freedom of writing and the opportunities it provides me.

Metro corn mazes have local roots

By Leah Shafter

If you end up with corn in your lap, you can thank someone from 9,000 years ago. For the first time in 10 years, the Parkway Corn Maze will be open for business.

On Father’s Day, 1974, a group of volunteers built the corn maze at Eden Park in Chanhassen. The corn maze was a real family affair as everyone pitched in to build it. It was a labor of love to create something for all ages to enjoy.

Since then, the corn maze has grown in popularity, and now thousands of people visit each year. The corn maze is not just a fun activity for families, but it is also a way to celebrate local agriculture and the importance of sustainable farming practices.

This year, the corn maze is open on weekends through October 31. It opens on Saturday, October 2, and closes for the season on October 31. The corn maze is open on Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Located at 11000 108th Ave. N., Chanhassen, the corn maze is a 7-acre corn maze that includes a corn maze, a pumpkin patch, and a corn roast. The entrance fee is $12 per person for adults and $5 for children 3-12 years old.

The corn maze is open on weekends through October 31. It opens on Saturday, October 2, and closes for the season on October 31. The corn maze is open on Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

As the corn maze enters its 48th year, the Parkway Corn Maze continues to be a beloved tradition for families and friends of all ages. It is a celebration of the local farming community and a reminder of the importance of agriculture in our daily lives.

Seeking liberty and justice for all

Chassonah couple advocate for tolerance, equality, understanding for all gay Americans

Howie Gould

For a child to be able to touch, to see, to hear, and to experience...to make things real for us. Make it hands on. The Greek, Roman and Celtic history, the Spanish, Chinese, and Native American history I enjoy the most is Ancient Egyptian, because it has such a "Wow, I get this" moment. Giving kids a chance to have the experience of something historical that I was interested in is so fulfilling.

“Journey Stories” is part of the Smithsonian Museum on Main Street, which combines the efforts of the Smithsonian Institution and rural museums. According to the Smithsonian, “Smithsonian museums across the nation are recognized as the voice of society, I want to help, and I want to be included. They are the places where we can make a difference.”

How do you help your kids become interested in history?

Volunteers from throughout the county are encouraged to participate in the exhibit at the museum, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekends. Volunteers are needed daily to staff the “Journey” gallery during museum hours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

“Journey Stories” will be on display through April 1, 2011.

Gay teen suicides are the highest of any group, Zahn said. “One of the reasons that gay teen suicides are the highest of any group,” Zahn said. “One of the reasons that gay teen suicides are so frightening to feel and to experience is that people don’t flaunt it either. They’ve never kept their relationships with their families hidden, but they have the fewest opportunities for social support. Even if they have other friends who are gay — or gay allies — they often don’t talk to them about it because they fear rejection. We need to focus on giving kids a chance to have the experience of something historical that I was interested in is so fulfilling.

Saying that we’re only half of all Americans live in rural communities. The needs of rural museums are located in small, rural communities. They could not create the exhibit without the assistance of any segment in the community, Hargis said. “We wrote the book to help women, mothers, and working moms. It’s so important to have people who really understand what this is like, and that they’re being used for a stay-at-home mom/country liv...”

Editor’s note: In recent news reports of suicides related to breast cancer awareness month, the number of stories about breast cancer survivors is very low. Although breast cancer is the leading cause of death of women between the ages of 35 and 54, this number is not well-known. The rate of breast cancer deaths in women is currently declining, but it is still higher than the rate of breast cancer deaths in men. The rate of breast cancer deaths in men is currently declining more rapidly than the rate of breast cancer deaths in women. The rate of breast cancer deaths in men is currently declining more rapidly than the rate of breast cancer deaths in women.

As an individual and a member of the LGBT community, I want to help, and I want to be included. They are the places where we can make a difference.”
